F O R E W O R D

The study of one's family history has become the hobby of thousands of people the world over. The interest itself is not of recent development, but is inherent in human nature. The most primitive people make much of the ties of kin. The Aristocracy of every age and land have recognized the importance of recording their pedigrees. The Bible is filled with genealogies. In our own democratic land, it is fitting that the interest should not be limited to families of wealth or distinction.

One of the chief delights of genealogical research is the insight it gives into the motives, customs and daily mode of life of people who lived in a different era.

Those who regard cemeteries as gloomy places can never experience the mingling of reverence and joy of the genealogical enthusiast, when he stands at last at the long-sought grave of a remote ancestor.

"Stand on the busiest corner of New York City and detain the first 500 people who pass, either on foot, or in any variety of vehicle. Line them up and look them over. Say that they roughly correspond, person for person, with each of our first American ancestories, and we shall not be far wrong. There will be, most likely, a very few of exceptional ability, and a very few scoundrels; the great majority will be passably good citizens, ordinary and commonplace."

It is regretfully admitted that hundreds of names are absent from this record. The disappointment of these kinspeople will be shared when they search in vain. Blank pages are inserted for their addition.

In attempting a work of this nature, cooperation of all connected parties is necessary to assure perfection. Many letters have gone unanswered; others taking months of correspondence to complete a line. This, as all other genealogical work, has been compiled after the expenditure of time, energy and money. It is the result of eight years of research.

To Mrs. Mike (Ellie May) Gleaton, I am deeply indebted for her splendid work in collecting the major part of the Gleaton data. I am grateful also for the help of my cousin, Miss A. Lorraine Gleaton, in arranging the data for printing and who has shared the expense of research trips.

It is regretful that we have so few personal incidents and human interest stories. I hope, however, that some other member of the family will begin where I have ended, and include them in a second edition along with additional data.

This little book is dedicated to my relatives, known and unknown, and to the memory of my departed ancestors. To me they are real and still alive in the unseen world.

Birth into this life is the closing of a door from another sphere; death is the exit door from this life into a new place of habitation, where we continue to learn the lessons we failed to learn well in this life; thereby completing the third link in the chain of eternal progression.

This is not a new thought; it is true reasoning. Certainly it is reasonable that when we carry into death imperfections which we have not overcome in this life, that we are not prepared to dwell in the place of perfection - or to abide in the presence of God, who is perfect.

So there is a place after this life where we can progress to perfection and rectify the wrongs we did to ourselves and others here. I like the idea that I will have the privilege of being with my father and mother and other kin in that place of correction. Together we will learn from teachers advanced beyond us the principles of good character and right living.

We will still have our free agency; we can still refuse to learn, if we so choose. Our advancement to the ultimate goal of perfection will be made only in accordance with our willingness to learn and effort to reach this goal. When we have attained that degree, then we will be ready to go into the presence of God, which is our birthright. There the family relationship will be continued. Certainly it was not intended that death should be the parting of those who have formed ties of friendship and love.

L. N. G.

Tradition says that Joe did not fight in the Revolutionary War.

Joe and Mary had four sons and three daughters. Each child will be given including their children.

From Joe came all the Gleatons in America. They were as far back as any knowledge of the family goes, people of an active, aggressive nature; even temperament and strong physical mold.

MIGRATION TO FLORIDA

Elizabeth (Gleaton) Hopkins, Orlando, Florida

(Story concerning people of pages 2 through 9 )

"Rufus Thomas Gleaton, son of Levi Columbus and Mariah Hutto Gleaton, was reared in the vicinity of Tallassee, Talapoosa County, Alabama. He married Martha Sullivan (daughter of Jeremiah Sullivan and Nancy Deason) in Montgomery, Alabama. Their first six children were born in Gordon, Henry County. Rufus Thomas then returned to his home county (Talapoosa) and bought a plantation. Six more children were born there, and Sister Martha died. Discouraged by crop failure and poor soil, they decided to move to Arkansas. Selling all farm equipment except wagons, all stock except horses and mules, they started in real pioneer style in the fall of 1879.

The family stopped for a rest in Big Creek, Calhoun Co., Miss. Here Rufus Thomas rented a large farm with rich soil. At the end of the year, he bought one of his own. Two more children were born, and one Charles Eugene (born in Alabama) died there. They lived in Big Creek from 1880 until 1885, when rumors of the golden opportunities that awaited pioneers in Florida were circulated. Beautiful pictures of rich lands and citrus groves were painted for the listening farmers. Father, always a restless soul was thrilled at the thought of helping cultivate fertile wilderness, and at the same time, settle his family in the much advertised health-land of Florida. He sold his land, stock and equipment, and thus began our third journey, this time by train.

Believing Citrus County to be the center of the fruit belt, we stopped at Crystal River. Five miles from the town, Father bought forty acres of land, five of which was cleared. Part of the land was in Gulf Hammock at the head of Hall's River.

After father died, mother sold the Railroad a right-of-way through one corner of the field. We lived on the Wheelock farm until our house was built which was about two months. My older brothers were delighted to find wild turkeys and other game and animals plentiful. After chores (here we had no negro laborers) they would start out with their rifles and never came back empty handed. Every ounce of sweet has its portion of bitter, however, so along with the edible animals, there were also pests. Many nights we heard panther screams until our nerves were on edge. (Ten frightened children to quiet would try the patience of angels I imagine, but Father had nerves of steel). There were ten of us children who came to Florida. Levi went back to Alabama from Mississippi, then to Texas (his descendants in Texas). John and Sally (Sara Ellen) were married in Miss.; later went to Texas. They have descendants there. Brother James died in 1889 and sister Cornelia in 1890, leaving six children. Then Henry married and Churchell went away to work.

Father tried growing oranges without much success. To add to his disappointment, the section where he bought was malaria ridden. Finally, his health broken, he died in April 1891. The following Dec. my sister Laura died. Father was strict about morals and conduct, but kind, gentle and wise in administering justice for our behavior. His favorite book was the Bible. His hobby was growing flowers and fruit.

My Mother was a wonderfully strong and brave woman, though small in stature. Many of the businessmen of the town said she was a better manager than my father. After his death, left with four girls, she continued to manage the farm. There her pioneer spirit was really put to the test. She was determined to see the hopes, in the fruit venture, of my father realized. She bought oranges and planted the seed and had a grand start in a small grove when the "Big Freeze" of 1895 killed it to the ground. She thereafter turned her efforts to truck farming; hog and chicken raising. She hired white laborers, but stayed in the fields with the men to see that the work was properly done.

I remember many times she kept huge bonfires burning all night in the chicken yard to keep the wild cats from catching her chickens. The one thing she was afraid of was a gun. She caught a panther in a trap, took her lantern and walked a half mile through swamp land to the nearest neighbor to ask him to come home with her to shoot the animal. Never a thought that she might be attacked by other beasts.

When mother had stock or produce above her regular buyers demands, she often traded the excess to local merchants for commodities which her farm did not produce. There is one particular incident that stands out in my memory. We took some hogs to town one afternoon, bought what we needed and had one hog left. It was later than we had expected it to be when we finally started home. We were riding in a horse-drawn buggy. Dusk fell and we were still far from home. Suddenly a scream pierced the air that struck terror to my heart, but seemed not to have touched my mother. The cry of the ferocious panther on the hunt. He had smelled the fresh meat and was following along some distance behind our buggy! I begged mother to let me throw the hog to the beast, since that was what he wanted, but mother's Irish determination refused to be moved by my pleas. "No thief or robber, man or beast was going to get her hard-earned property. That hog will buy two weeks' supply of things our farm does not produce, so let the panther hunt elsewhere for food!" With that she whipped up the horse to a faster gait and I knew the matter was settled. I was petrified with fear. Each turn of the wheels jugged at my nerves; blood pounded in my ears. I strained my eyes trying to see through the ever-increasing darkness. I saw the lights of our house with such deep relief I felt like laughing and crying in one breath. Trying to conceal my real feelings, I hung onto my nerves, but imagine my desperation when we sped past our gate. I didn't dare open my mouth to ask the whyfore. My teeth would have chattered making words unintelligible. Her plan finally penetrated my numbed brain, as we drew up to the gate of our neighbor. Luckily it was open, so we drove in, up near the porch. Mother called to him. When he came to the door, mother said, "I've brought a panther for you to shoot, John." When the job was done, we turned and drove back home. I was very near to collapse; mother acting as if it was all in a day's work. That was my most terrifying experience.

The years rolled on one by one. The girls married, with the exception of Pearl. She died in 1905. Left alone, mother no longer had the heart to carry on. She was getting on in years, we persuaded her to make her home with us. Sister Kate (Catherine) died in 1915. Mother died in 1916. She was courageous, energetic and practical; not lacking, however, in the more feminine virtues of patience and gentleness when needed. She was known as "Mother" Gleaton to all the community, being ever ready to lend a hand where needed.

She endured the hardships of pioneer life without complaining. Bore 14 children, lived to see seven of them die. Henry, her eldest son in Florida was by vocation, a farmer; by hobby, a floraculturist. He married Mary Carmichael. His descendants are in Hillsborough and Citrus Countys, Florida. Churchill was first a sponge diver, then commercial fisherman; owning his craft and equipment and overseeing his crews. He and wife Tabitha Moore are living in St. Petersburg, Pinellas County, Florida. Also their descendants with one exception; a daughter in Miami, Dade County, Fla. My children live: One in Orange County, one in Citrus County and a daughter in California. The children of Catherine live in Citrus and Lillian's in Orange County. The descendants of Rufus Thomas and Martha Sullivan Gleaton are numerous. Outside of those mentioned in Florida, many live in other southern and in western states."

Hale Lineage of Ellie May Redd Gleaton

Frederick Hale was a Revolutionary Soldier. His record is on file in Warren County, North Carolina. His son, Dudley Hale Sr. died 1795. He md. (2), a widow, Susannah Burrics. (His first wife is the mother of his son), Dudley Hale Jr., b. 1790; d. 15 April 1866; md. Sarah Kirkland in 1826. She was born 1800; d. 15 Aug. 1857. They had a son, George Augustus Hale, b. 3 May 1841; d. 6 Nov. 1864; md. Mary Virginia Owens, 9 Jan. 1861. She was born 25 Nov. 1838; d. 18 Jan. 1900. Their daughter, Sarah Elizabeth Hale, b. Oct. 1864 was born just three weeks before her father was killed in battle at Petersburg, Va. Sarah md. David Eli Redd, who were the parents of Ellie May Redd Gleaton. She was the only child of that union. Her father died when she was very young, her mother, Sarah Elizabeth (Hale) Redd again md. when Ellie May was seven years old, Eugene Brantley Gleaton. (previously recorded with their issue).

Direct Lineage from Michael Brinkley Gleaton,
Back to the Emigrant Ancestor, through His Father's Line.

From the Record of A. Dan Morgan, North, South Carolina, 3 April, 1933.

"From Brittany, a province of France, in the latter years of Sixteen hundred, to Scotland came

1. Phillip Pou and his wife Ursula, an Italian lady, and their son.
2. Gavin Pou md. Margaret Mureno, also Italian. Gavin Pou was a barber Surgeon of Edenburg, Scotland. They came to America in 1740, settled in the Forks of Edisto, a few miles from Shillings Bridge, North Edisto. Their daughter, (born in Orangeburg District),
3. Mary Pou, md. Henry Jones of Jones Bridge, North Edisto River, a toll bridge which he owned. Their home was just at the top of the hill south of the river. Their daughter,
4. Rebecca Jones md. Dempsey Corbitt. Their home was about a mile east of Good Land Creek and a quarter mile south of Springfield, Orangeburg Road. Their daughter,
5. Matilda Rebecca Corbitt md. Henry Felder Salley. They lived near, and south of the road from Salley to north, by Buffalo Pond, about a mile east from where said road crosses Good Land Creek. Their daughter,
6. Anna Rebecca Salley md. Levi Alexander Gleaton. They lived about a quarter of a mile north of the Pleasant Hill-Neeses road and a mile and a half west of Rocky Swamp Creek. Their son,
7. Mike Thomas Gleaton md. Ellie May Redd. They live in Springfield, S. Car. Their son,
8. Rudolph Gleaton md. Marianne Meredith Brinkley. Their son,
9. Michael Brinkley Gleaton, b. 2 Oct. 1936.

From Gavin Pou to Michael Gleaton, a direct line, all have lived in the forks of the Edisto, Orangeburg District, South Carolina.

From the Record of Daniel Morgan, comes this explanation of the name "Pou."

"The word 'POU' is Spanish, for a source of drinking water, hence, a spring or well. The Coat of Arms is a curbed well, with a wheel and rope. An old fashioned well with a large Lizzard on each side.

1. Introduction

2. Methodology

The purpose of this study is to investigate the effects of various factors on the performance of the system. The study is divided into two main parts: a theoretical analysis and an experimental evaluation.

3. Results

4. Discussion

The results of the study show that the system performs well under most conditions. However, there are some limitations to the current design, particularly in terms of scalability and flexibility. Further research is needed to address these issues.

5. Conclusion

6. References

The study was supported by the National Science Foundation (NSF) Grant No. 1234567. The authors would like to thank the reviewers for their constructive comments.

Gleaton - Maddox

Geo. W. Gleaton entered the Civil War at the age of sixteen, Co. G. 19th Regiment of Georgia Volunteers. He lost his right leg in battle which retired him from fighting. He graduated from Emory College, Oxford, Ga. in 1870. He taught school several years, and finally located in Conyers County seat of the then newly created county of Roxdale, and began the practice of law. He married, 30 June 1875, Fannie M. Stewart, daughter of Rev. John L. Stewart of Conyers. In 1876, he was elected judge of the county court which he held for three years.

MADDOX

The members of the Maddox family were quiet and sedate in their manner. Studious, gifted with exceptional minds, they made a place for themselves in the professional world. Among them were teachers, lawyers, librarians, doctors, etc.

WAR RECORDS

We regret that time and funds did not permit us to include all of the war records. There are dozens we were unable to secure.

Thomas Gleaton Sr., served in "J. M. Salley's Company Julian Battalian" war of 1812 - S. C. Militia.

"The official muster roll of Company 1, 22nd Regiment, S. C. Vol. show that Absolam Elijah Gleaton was enlisted therein as 2nd Corporal under Capt. Millhouse at Camp Hampton, Jan. 29, 1862; and was still serving therein at the making of the last muster roll there of Feb. 28, 1865. He being then 1st Lieut. thereof. He was not among those of the Company paroled at Appomatox, April 10, 1865."

A. S. SALLEY, JR., SECRETARY.
May 28, 1926.

George, who was the son of Absolum and Nancy Bonnett and grandson of Thomas Sr., was killed at the Battle of the Crater, Petersburg, Va. 30 June, 1864.

"Thomas William Gleaton, 6th child of Absolum Gleaton and Nancy Rachael Bonnett, enlisted 29 Jan. 1862, as a Sergeant in Co. 1, 22nd S. C. Infantry, C.S.A. Was appointed Ensign 20 April 1864. Present on Roll of Field and Staff for Jan. and Feb. 1865. Last on file. No prisoner of war record found."

War Record of Lucy Gleaton's Father, Washington, D.C.

"The name, George W. Gleaton, Pvt., Co. G., 19 Reg. Ga. Inf. C.S.A. appears on a list of Prisoners of War at Fort McHenry; md. March 6, 1863, and sent to Fort Monroe Va. for exchange, March 13, 1863, which list shows that he was captured Sept. 17, 1862 at Antietam. His name appears on a register of General Hospital, Petersburg, Va. admitted March 18, 1863, gunshot wound, right leg amputated. Under remarks on register above mentioned, he is shown as a paroled prisoner. No later record has been found. The only roll on file for the above named organization is dated June 6, 1861, but the name Geo. W. Gleaton does not appear thereon. Date and place of enlistment not shown."

OUR SALLEY ANCESTRY

Taken from Salley Genealogy with allied families of Wannamaker, Mackay and Bellinger, S. Car. Compiled by J. Skottowe Wannamaker St. Matthews, South Carolina. Published by Walker, Evans and Cogswell Co., Charleston, S. Car., 1937.

ORIGIN OF SALLEY NAME.

"The name of Salley, says an early settler writer, signifies "A Field of Sallows" a species of willow, and there is a village of the same name in the parish of Gisburne, County of Yorkshire, England. There also was a Salley Abbey, the abode of an order of Monks, in the 12th century. The two older sons of the first Henry Salley are the ancestors of the Salleys of Aiken Co., S. Car. Those in the communities around Springfield, North, and Woodford, S. Car. Most of the Salleys in and around Orangeburg are descended from John Salley, youngest son of Henry Salley, Sr.

The Salley men who were of age during the different wars of this country, fought gallantly. George Elmore Salley has a splendid record recorded in the above named book. We have not the means of securing the service record of each individual, suffice it to say, each in turn served his country well.

The following marriage record copied from the original now in possession of A. C. Salley.

O'SULLIVAN

"New England Historical and Genealogical Register," and "Irish Pedigrees." by O'Hart.

The root of this surname is the Irish sul-gen-sul, "The eye" is derived from the Irish sul "The sun" (Latin meaning of Sol) because the eye is the light of the body.

(Lineage)

The Irish family of O'Sullivan deduces its descent from OLIOL OLLUM, King of Munster, who reigned A. D. 125, and whose lineage the Hibernain Chronicles trace from Heber Finn, one of the sons of Milesius.

As attested by the "annals of the Four Masters" and other ancient chronicles and genealogies: The ancient home of the family was in the counties of Cork, Kerry and Limerick. The chief of the family bore the title of Prince of Beare and Lord Dunkerton.

In church, state and professional life, this family won distinction and took a foremost place in Irish history. Branches of the family settled in every county in Ireland. The southerly portion of Ireland, consisting of Tipperary and Waterford forms what is now known as the Province of Munster.

For many centuries, O'Sullivan More, chief of the Eugonian nobles, so called from their descent from Owen More, had his principal residence at Knoc Graffon, a strong castle near Cashel and Clormel on the river Suir, in Tipperary, at the eastern extremity of Munster.

In 489, Angus, the first Christian King of Munster, who had been converted and baptised by St. Patrick, was killed in battle. He was the common ancestor of the O'Sullivans, although the name was not adopted. O'Sullivan More, in 909 A.D. was slain at the battle of Maigh Ailbe, and in 943, another O'Sullivan More, with other great chiefs of Munster, assembled and attacked the Danes, whom they defeated. O'Sullivan acted as general of the Confederacy and in personal conflicts slew Moran, son of the king of Denmark. Donel More, 8th from the first who assumed the name of O'Sullivan, and a lineal descendant from Eogan More, was the ancestor of both branches of the O'Sullivan More and O'Sullivan Beare.

During the reign of Queen Elizabeth, two of the most thrilling episodes of Irish history were the defense of the Castle of Dunboy by Donal O'Sullivan Beare, and his famous retreat from Glengariff at the head of Lantry Bay, to form a junction with the northern Irish forces at Leitrim. Donal set out on this retreat over the mountains of northwestern Cork and of Kerry with 400 fighting men and 600 women, children and servants. Covering his retreat, were four thousand English soldiers, commanded by Sir George Carew. O'Sullivan marched day and night, constantly harassed by the enemy. With the remnant of his fighting men, he made a stand on the banks of the river Shannon and gave battle to the English vanguard, while the few surviving women and children were carried across the Shannon in boats made from the skins of horses killed for that purpose. He crushed the English advance line, killing their commanding officer, Lanby, and then resumed his retreat. When he finally reached his destination at Leitrim, he had but 18 soldiers left; 16 servants and one woman, of the thousand that started from Glengariff. This woman was the mother of the famous Phillip O'Sullivan, of the Spanish navy, one of the most erudite writers of that age and of the brother Daniel of the Spanish army, who fell while fighting the Mohammedans in the Crusades. O'Sullivan himself, took refuge in Spain and was appointed Governor of Coruna. The estates of the O'Sullivan's in Ireland were confiscated and their lives declared forfeit by the English crown. "The harrow of the merciless conqueror was over the scattered clansmen of Beare, many whom still clung with grim tenacity to their lowly homes among the mountains and glens of Cork and Kerry."

The following ballad written by one of the family, the Irish Poet Laureate T.D. O'Sullivan, is a proud possession of the O'Sullivans - as is their coat of arms with its lions rampant and the crest with a dove holding an olive branch in its beak.

"Who will hold back when O'Sullivan loudly
Calls on his people to haste to his aid?
Who will not rush to him gladly and proudly
Fire in his heart and edge to his blade?"

Kindred, Clansmen!

Seamen and Landsmen!

Young men, old men, afar and anear

Together, Together!

In calm or wild weather!

When called by the shout of O'Sullivan Beare!

Never a coward, a cringer or quailer
Was chieftain of Beare of late or of yore
Ever a hero, a soldier and sailor
Fearless at sea and valiant on shore!

Landsmen, Seamen!

Fearless and freemen.

Namesake and kinsmen afar and anear.

Together, Together!

From sea foam and heather.

Come to the call of O'Sullivan Beare!

3.

Come with a rush when O'Sullivan needs you.
Worthy your cheerful devotion is he,
Gaily dash on where O'Sullivan leads you;
Fearing not, caring not, where it may be!

Tall men, Small men,

Stout men, and all men;

Horsemen and footmen, afar and anear.

Together, Together!

In Calm or wild weather,

When called by the shout of O'Sullivan Beare."

OUR BOLIN LINEAGE

EDWARD BOLIN SR. RECORD

With Allied Families

- 1 Gen. Edward Bolin 1st, was born about 1740 in Ireland. He died about 1800. He was an honest hard working man. A member of the Baptist Church. He served in the Revolutionary war. After that, he bought a large farm in Orangeburg Co. near Tampa Mill where he lived and is buried. His gravestone was furnished by the government provided for old soldiers.

He married Ann Elizabeth Salley (her lineage under Salley data), daughter of Martin Salley and Susannah _____. Ann Elizabeth Salley's first child was of Reedy parentage. We have no data on the Reedy family. It is not exactly clear why Jacob, son of Ann Elizabeth Salley and Reedy, did not wish to wear his father's name. However, his preference was certain, for he continued to use his mother's maiden or family name (Salley), though she later married Edward Bolin.

Jacob (Reedy) Salley had a son, Martin.

(PERSONAL HISTORY CONTRIBUTED BY J.W.DEASON)

Absalom Deason came from Shelbyville, Tennessee, in 1817. When he reached the Warrior River, he made rafts by cutting up the wagon in which they had come through the country, and crossed the river where Bryce Hospital is now located, and later moved on up into the "Piney Woods" on North River. John Deason (our grandfather) was then nine years old.

John Yerby married Absalom Deason's sister, she died and he married Ann Hassell. He was the father of 18 children. All of Absalom Deason's sons by his second marriage were in the Civil War. There were seven of them.

John Washington Deason bought, in 1880, 480 acres of land one mile north of Northport, on the Byler Road. For some of the land he paid $1.00 and for some $70.00 an acre. He sold some for $2.50 and some for $60.00 per acre. These lands were known as the "Jones Place" and the "Robertson Place."

HUTTO

This miscellaneous HUTTO data is included in this book as some of the original who came to this country, and because the name connects with my line.

Taken from "History of Orangeburg County," by A.S. Salley, Secretary, South Carolina Historical Commission, Columbia, South Carolina.

"For some years previous to 1735, John Peter Purry, a Swiss gentleman, had been trying to establish Swiss colonies in South Carolina. He settled one on the Savannah River and named it Purrysburg.

He gave such a glowing account of the country in a pamphlet (see Carroll's Historical Collection of S. Car., Vol. 11) which he distributed throughout Switzerland, Holland, North Germany and the Provinces of the Rhine that a great many settlers were induced to come to America.

On July 13, 1735, two hundred and fifty German Swiss arrived from Rotterdam, the usual Port for German and Swiss migration. The first shipload for Orangeburg Township arrived in Charlestown in July, 1735 and went immediately to the township of the Edisto river, thereafter called Orangeburg. In 1736, a second installment of settlers arrived. In 1737, a third came. With them came a Luthern Minister, Rev. John Ulrick Giessendanner, later ordained in the Episcopal church and given a church in Orangeburg District

He began in the fall of 1737 the church register. The following record was taken from it."

DANTZLER HUTTO FAMILY HISTORY.

This information found in Book, "Genealogical Record of the Dantzler Family from 1739 to 1899" by Rev. D.D.
 Dantzler, Orangeburg, S. Car.
 (Printer: 1899, R. Lewis Berry) Orangeburg, Orb Co., S.C.

About the year 1739, Harry Dantzler emigrated to South Carolina from Germany and settled in Orangeburg County. With him, he brought his three sons, (ages unknown, it is supposed they were young boys). His wife died before they left Germany. The three boys constitute the first American Generation of Dantzlers.

Herrin Original Spelling had a "g"

The name of Herring, or Perring is thought by some etymologists to have been derived from a nick name, having references to the fish so called, but it is more generally believed that the name was the Anglicized form of the ancient Norse or Saxon baptismal name of Haring. It is found in ancient English records in the various spellings of H aring, Hareng, Harin, Herin, Herying, Harring, Herringe, Heringe, Hering, Herring, Herrin and others, of which the three forms last mentioned are most generally used in America today.

Probably the earliest known line of the family was that represented in the county of Dorset. Other branches of the family were residents in the counties of Wilts, Norfolk, York, Bedford, Warwick, Salop, Cambridge, Oxford, Edinburgh, Perth, London and some from Scotland.

It is generally believed that the Herings and Herrings of America are descendants of ancient British stock, probably traceable to Dorsetshire.

Among the first Herring immigrants were John, of lower New Norfolk Co., Va. (1642), and James, of Dedham, Mass. (1642). Tradition tells they were brothers, that James remained in the north; he or his descendants being manufacturer of the Herring Safes. It is believed the one in Va. is our ancestor.

John Alexander Herring of Norfolk County, England migrated to New Jersey about 1670 and later moved to Rockingham County, Va.

William Herring is believed to have been the son of William (brother of Sir Thomas Herring) who was archbishop of Canterbury in the early 18th century. His home was County Norfolk, England. Accompanying him to Va. were several brothers. William later moved to Pendelton County, South Carolina, and died there about 1819. Issue:

Elisha, Stephen, Elijah and others.

Mack Herrin came to Georgia from North Carolina with the early settlers. He was a widower, his wife having died in North Carolina; he located in Wayne County. His children were, James (Big Jim) Herrin, who married Mary Rooks, June 10, 1827. Issue:

Confederate War record of 7 sons of Daniel Herrin(g).

The following information was obtained from the War Dept. at Washington, D. C. The records show that W. R. Herring (name also found W.R. Herrin), private, Co. A 4th (Clinchs) Regiment Ga., Cav. C.S.A., enlisted April 27, 1862 at Waynesville, Ga. He subsequently became a member of Co. K. of the same Regiment and Muster Roll of that Company for May and June, last on file shows him present. Union Records show that he was surrendered May 25, 1865, at Thomasville, Ga., and paroled the same day, in compliance with the terms of a military convention made on 26 April, 1865.

2. James H. Herrin, private, C. D. 26th Regiment Ga. Infantry, C.S.A., enlisted 9 Oct., 1864, at Brunswick, Ga., last on file, dated 4 Nov. 1864 shows him absent (wounded). He was admitted to Jackson Hospital Richmond, Va. 19 May, 1864, on account of gunshot wounds, and furloughed for 6 days. Union records show that he was surrendered 25 May, 1865 at Thomasville, Ga., and paroled same day.

3. John D. Herrin, private Co. D. 26th Reg. Ga. Inf. C.S.A., enlisted 29 July, 1861, at Satilla, Ga. Killed in battle 10 May, 1864.

4. Henry Levi Herring, private of Co. 1, 21st Reg. Ga. Inf. C.S.A. His name is not borne on the Muster rolls on file in this office of that company which covers the period in part from Aug. 3, 1861 to Aug. 31, 1864, and no record has been found to show the date and place of his entry into service, but he is shown to have been in service as early as June 17, 1864, on which date he was admitted to C.S.S. General Hospital, to Charlottesville, Va., and returned to duty 2 Aug. 1864.

(Note, by Josie Lee Jeffords). I was told that my father-in-law, Henry Levi Herrin(g), was too young to enlist when other brothers did, but one day a detachment of soldiers came by his father's place and stopped to get a drink. When they left, the 16 year old boy rode off with them. He was determined to go and in this way, eluded his father and mother who felt like the war had taken its toll from their family.

5. Owen Herrin, private Capt. Clinch's Batt. Ga., Light Artillery, C.S.A., enlisted 1 Dec., 1863, at Camp Mercer; Captured 13 Dec., 1864 at Camp Mcallister; imprisoned at Pt. Lookout, Md. and was released there June 28, 1865 on taking the oath of Allegiance (under 18 years of age) in 1863.

6 A. Herring, private, Capt. Clinch's Batt. Ga. Light Artillery, C.S.A. enlisted 9 Feb., 1864, at Camp Mercer Company Muster Roll for Sept. and Oct. 1864, last on file show him on sick leave. No late record of his age has been found.

7. Herrin, Herrin(g) private, Co. D. 26th Reg. Ga. Inf. enlisted 9 Oct., 1861 at Brunswick, Ga. Killed in Battle 17 Aug. 1864. Received gunshot wound in arm in battle near Fredericksville, Va. 3 May, 1863.

FILLER DATA

William Miller was born in Craven Co., No. Carolina.
He married Amy Barker, of Quaker descent. William served in the Rev. War, as a private in the N. Car. army.

The following data received from the office of Veterans Administration, Washington, D. C.

William Miller was born in Craven Co., in the part which later became Jones County, N. Carolina. Parents unknown. While living in Craven County, he enlisted and served as private with the N. Car. troops as follows:

In 1779, with Captain Fredericks in Harget's Company;
in 1780, in Capt. Blank's Company; in the second Reg.
of Brig. Gen. Caswell's Brigade. Later he was back in Col. Harget's Company under Capt. Wm. George's command.

Between the years 1785 and 1790, he moved to Georgia where he lived in Burke, Bullock and lastly Ware County.

William was born 8 Mar. 1759, son of Tobias Miller and Mary Miller. He md. 1780, Bullock Co., Amy Barker, dau. of Thomas Barker; she was born 1760 in N. Car. She died 23 Oct. 1831, Ware Co., Ga. and is buried in Kettle Creek cemetery. Issue:

Susan, md. Daniel Eastwood Jones. (More later)
Mary Ann, md. Daniel T. Blackburn.

Capt. David Jesse, md. Lonya Dyas, who was born in Tattnall Co., Ga. Capt. David Jesse Miller was born on the farm of his father in Bullock County. He joined the Militia when a young man, and was made captain of a company which he led against the Indians. The following military information taken from the Ga. Dept. of Archives:

"Capt. David Jesse Miller's Company of Mounted Men were ordered into service by Col. (later Gen.) Thomas Millard (his son-in-law) commanding officer of the 'Militia of War'. These troops were stationed at Fort Mudge. There were two forts at that time in this vicinity; one located at Waresboro, and the other at Kettle Creek, near Waycross, Ga. When the Indians went on the warpath, the women and children were taken to these forts and stockades, while the men pursued the Indians and drove them from Okefenokee Swamp to Florida Everglades. Capt. Miller saw distinguished service during the Indian War of 1838."

In this same Company, his brother, Martain T. Miller, was 2nd Lieut., and another brother, Ezekiel Miller, a private. My paternal grandfather, Harman Van Rensselaer Jeffords, was also a private, as was Joseph McQuaig, a brother of my maternal grandfather, James Neil McQuaig.

Barbara, daughter of William Miller and Amy Barker, md. Gen. Thos. Hillard. Issue:

The McQuaigs came to South Georgia from Montgomery County, and to Montgomery County from North Carolina. The first McQuaig to settle in Ware Co., was James Neil McQuaig, of Scotch-Irish descent. He lived with Benjamin Yarborough, who married Mary Miller, dau. of David and Lonya Dyas Miller.

While still a young man, he courted and won the hand of Caroline Miller, a younger daughter of Capt. David Jesse Miller. They were married in Dec. of the year of 1851. Caroline was only 14 years of age.

James McQuaig served in the Indian war of 1838 under Capt. David Jesse Miller. He was quite young, so was probably a drummer boy.

As a Justice of the Inferior Court of Ware County, James Neil McQuaig served the year of Jan. 23, 1865. When war was declared between the states, he enlisted in Company K. 26th Ga. Inf., and was wounded by a minnie ball which entered his chest, injuring his lung. He never recovered from this wound, contracting tuberculosis, and died 18 Feb. 1882. He was enlisted under the nickname of Jimpsey N. McQuaig, and served as private.

Joseph McQuaig enlisted in Company K. 26th Reg. Ga., Vol. C.S.A. He received Cross of Honor in 1901.

A brother John stayed in Montgomery County, and married there. Sherman's army marched through his place completely destroying everything. His wife and children followed behind the army picking up scattered corn to keep from starving to death, until they reached help. His brothers, James and Joseph, went after them after the war and moved them to Ware County, Ga.

Edward McQuaig, another brother enlisted and was killed in action.

McQuaigs still live at Manor, Ware County, Georgia.

CARMICHAEL

SOURCE OF THE FAMILY

"The Carmichael name appears to have originated about 1100 A.D. in Lanarkshire, a county in the Lowlands of Scotland in which is located the city of Glasgow. The name appears first in published records in 1179, in a Papal Bull issued by Pope Alexander III to Bishop Jocelyn of the See of Glasgow, giving a list of churches in that jurisdiction, as "Kermichel," the name of a church in Lanarkshire. In an inventory of the churches of Scotland by Prince David and published in 1116, this church is listed as "Llanmichel." In Papal Bulls issued in 1181, 1186 and later, the name appears with various forms of spelling, among them "Chermichel," "Karemigel," and "Kermichel." It appears first with its present spelling "Carmichael," in a charter granting the church properties to Sir James Douglas issued by Robert the Bruce, King of Scotland, soon after his ascension to the throne in 1306.

"After the Norman French Conquest of England in 1066 by William the Conqueror, a large number of the followers of the Norman French Conqueror became dissatisfied with the distribution of the spoils of the Conquest and were driven out of England because of their protests. They took refuge in Scotland where they were welcomed and provided with lands by King Malcolm. Records indicate that the Carmichaels are descended from this Norman French group."

ORIGIN OF THE NAME

"The sources of the surnames adopted or applied is an interesting study in itself. Among such sources are the occupation, profession or office of the individual, his location, peculiarity of habits, personal characteristics or infirmities physical and otherwise, unusual feats, etc. In some cases, the surname was assumed as a whole, as in case of Smith, Brown, Clark, etc. In other cases a modification of the existing name of the individual was made, which was the method by which the name Carmichael was derived. It had for its base the French proper name, Michel, which later became the Latin equivalent Michael. This was also the base for a number in Scotland, in addition to Carmichael, among them Kilmichael, the Michael that lives on the stream, Kirkmichael, the Michael who lives near or is otherwise identified with the church (from "cyrc" Old Saxon word for church) McMichael and Fitzmichael, son of Michael.

In Lanarkshire and other parts of Scotland are found the remains of many Old Briton stone forts, called in the language of that ancient race, "caers." There is one of these old forts on the Carmichael estate in Lanarkshire, on a hill a short distance from the Carmichael church which occupies the original site on which it was established 800 years ago. This church appears in church records in 1116 as Llanmichel; but as Kermichel in 1179, which indicates that the name was changed sometime between those two dates. The original name of the church, Llanmichel (or Churchmichel) was from Llan (Old Briton word for church) and the proper name Michel. When the man Michel for whom the church was named became its head, he added the prefix Caer, meaning church to his name. Hence the surname Caer Michel, or the Michel that lives by or near the Caer (fort or place of refuge). The name of the church was changed accordingly to Caermichel."

GIVEN NAMES OF THE CARMICHAEL FAMILY

During the 600 years covered by the peerage records of the principal branch of the Carmichael family, there appears recurring given names in order of frequency, 9 male-- John, William, James, Archibald, Charles, Daniel, Thomas, Hugh, Walter; 6 female-- Mary Margaret, Elizabeth, Anne, Jane, Grizel.

In the Highland branch of the family the names Malcolm, Murdoch, Neil, Duncan, Dougald, and Donald were added to the male list and Polly (Mary), Peggy (Margaret), Nancy (Ann), Katherine (Kate), Christian, Flora, were added to the female list.

PRINCIPAL BRANCH OF THE FAMILY

The record of the principal branch of the Carmichael family is currently published in the British Peerage and begins with a royal charter of the King of Scotland granting to William de Carmichael lands in Lanarkshire about 1350, and these records refer to "this ancient surname," indicating the antiquity of the family when the record was made 600 years ago. John de Carmichael, son of William, was invested with lands by precept from James, Earl of Douglas, prior to 1388. William de Carmichael, son of John, is mentioned in a royal charter of church lands in 1410. Sir John de Carmichael, son of William, distinguished himself in 1422 at the battle of Bauge, Anjou, France, with the English on one side and the French and Scots on the other, for which he was given a baronet and otherwise recognized by the king of Scotland. During the battle he engaged in personal combat with the English commander and dismounted him, which act resulted in victory for Scottish-French forces. In the combat he broke his spear, and the crest of the coat of arms of the Carmichael family is "a dexter hand and arm, in armor, holding a broken spear," commemorating that event.

The name appears in all charters and other records prior to about 1500 with the French prefix "de," indicating the Norman-French origin of the family.

The family seat is located about three miles southwest of the town of Lanark, in Carmichael Parish, an administrative division of the county of Lanarkshire. A detailed description of this parish may be found in British government publications, which give some historical information concerning the family also. The family seat is Carmichael House, located on the original estate, still owned but not now occupied by members of the family is Sir Gibson Graig Carmichael, Baron, who succeeded to the title in 1926.

BREAKING UP OF THE CLANS

The members of the clans that took part in the "Rising" of 1745 and the battle of Culloden were subjected to some of the most horrible treatment ever given a vanquished people by a civilized government. Every effort was made to exterminate men, women and children. The only reason this did not fully succeed was the difficulty in finding the victims who had taken refuge in the caves and other hiding places in the wild rugged mountains of the Highlands. Many perished from hunger and exposure. The British government was determined to destroy the Highland Clan System and no means was considered too brutal or horrible to accomplish this. The lands of the offending clans were seized and apportioned among those that had been loyal to the King. Many restrictions were imposed, such as the death penalty for wearing the Highland dress; for composing and teaching patriotic songs by the Highland bards; and others of similar effect, having for their purpose the destruction of the clan spirit.

After Culloden, the members of the offending clans were required to pay exorbitant rents for the use of former clan lands which they had used and considered their property for hundreds of years. They were subjected to many other burdensome restrictions, economic and otherwise, imposed for the purpose of destroying the clan spirit, with the result that the conditions of life for such of the people as had been spared in the wholesale butchery following Culloden became intolerable.

EMIGRATION TO NORTH CAROLINA

About this time, Gabriel Johnson, Governor of the Royal Province of North Carolina, a Scottish Highlander, who had used the Lowland form of his name, Johnson instead of the Highland form, McIan, was in London on business of his office with the King, who was not aware that he was a Highlander and in full sympathy with his fellow Scot. When the King referred to the difficulties he was having with the Scottish Highlander Clans, Governor Johnson suggested that these rebel Highlanders be sent to North Carolina where he would provide homes for them so that they would give no further trouble. This solution of a vexing problem met with instant approval of the King who at once took steps to carry it into effect. About 1747, a great migration of Scottish Highlanders began to the valley of the Cape Fear river in North Carolina, which continued, except for the interruption by the American Revolution (1775 to 1787) until after the end of the century, and reached a total of between 20 and 30 thousands of the flower of the Scottish Clans that were in rebellion in 1745-6. The number is estimated at 5,000 in 1753 and at 15,000 at the outbreak of the Revolution.

There is little or no record of this movement. Except during the year 1774-6, no record was made by the British Government of Emigrant ships, dates and ports of departure and destination, lists of passenger, etc. and none at all by the North Carolina colonial government. The same is true with respect to emigrants after the Revolution. The state of North Carolina made no record, and the U. S. Government did not begin making record of Immigrants until many years after this movement was over. Many of these arriving after the war, came individually or in small family groups, by way of Charleston and Northern ports.

Duncan Greenberry Carmichael was born 16 Dec. 1816 in North Carolina. He died 1875, Salem, Taylor County, Florida. He was an overseer on a large plantation owned by a Mr. Crum near Manor, Ware County, Ga. He had a brother John that lived at Lumber City, Ga. He and his first wife (name unknown) had three children.

CORBITT

The Corbett family originated with a Norman named Corbeau, who was a soldier in the army of William the Conqueror; upon the Conquest of England in 1066. This soldier was granted a large estate by William and his name was Anglocised to Corbett.

During the Reformation, some of the Corbetts removed from England to Ireland and inter-marrying with the Celts, they have become one of the best known Irish families. Some of the Irish family spell the name Corbitt but the English family retain the spelling Corbett.

Apparently the first man by the name of Corbett to come to America was one Thomas Corbett, who settled at

It is not known definitely when he came over, but one Isaac Amfard by his will which was Probated in England, Aug. 26, 1738-- "To my good friends-- Thomas Corbett of Charlestown aforesaid Province of South Carolina, in America, my desk and bookcase and all my books to be delivered to him immediately after my death.

Another early Corbett in America, was a John C., a merchant, in Charleston, who came from Shiffrol, in the county of Salop, England. His mercantile business was not very prosperous. He died in 1799.

These two men, however, are not to be confused with the family here traced.

The house of Corbett was founded in England by a companion in arms of Wm. the Conqueror. Sir Roger Corbett, 2nd son of Corbeau, Lord of Pays de Caux, in Normandy, France. Sir Roger was the Conqueror's standard bearer at the Battle of Hastings. A.D. 1066. This ancient and distinguished family, as it is called in the heraldic records, has from that day to this, occupied important estates in Shropshire, while branches of the family have acquired seats in other parts of Great Britain.

My mother's branch of the Corbitt family in America originated with John Corbitt, who was the son of a John Corbitt, and who came from Ireland about the year 1779 or 1780 and settled on the Peedee River in South Carolina. He married twice; wives names unknown. He removed from South Carolina Georgia with his family and settled about two miles southwest of Waresboro, Ware County, Ga., about 1821.

In this community, is located the Okefinokee Swamp, the head waters of the famous Suwannee River. The Suwannee forms the great drain of the Okefinokee Swamp, and rises in the pine lands of that county, a little to the north of the swamp. It runs nearly to the center of it; receives creeks of considerable size during its passage. It flows out toward Florida. This river usually has a width of 40 yards and a depth of 3 feet with a current of great rapidity. The Suwannee basin in Georgia contains about 5,520 square miles.

The Corbitts went from Waresboro to Manor, a few miles distant. From there they moved to the vicinity of White Springs, Hamilton County, Florida.

Great Grandfather James A. Corbitt bought the old Spencer's property. After great-grand-mother Elizabeth died, it was sold to the Hendricks family.

Great Grandfather James left his cattle in Georgia when he came down to find a new home. When the new home was found, he rode horseback with a group of men to get his cattle in Ga. His wife Elizabeth had a brother, Jackson Carter, that was injured during the Civil War and it affected his mind. In his mind, he figured James had abandoned the cattle and they were his. He refused to let James drive them away. James ordered the corral gates opened and when he did Jackson shot him dead. Jackson was never tried for murder, but chained to a tree in the yard until the state asylum officers came after him. This happened about April 1876. He died April 19, 1892 of apoplexy in the Milledgeville State Hospital. He was a native of Appling Co., Ga. He had a brother Elijah, and a twin sister to Elizabeth, Martha.

At the death of James, Elizabeth was left a widow with 15 children and a big farm. She was a good manager and with the help of Wylie Lee, a neighbor, she kept things going and raised her 15 children and three orphan boys. The neighbors for miles around, came for her during sickness. She never refused to go and never turned away a person who came to her door hungry.

Elizabeth was the daughter of George Carter and Penelope (Penny) _____. Penelope was born and raised in Appling Co., Ga. Penelope died 1862 and is buried on a farm in a small cemetery on the Jim Griffin place between Pinevalley and Waycross, Ga. on the Carswell Ave. Road.

John Corbitt, son of John Corbitt and wife Mildred, came from Ireland about 1780. Two wives. (names unknown)

"There are lots of nice stories connected with the Corbitt family. For instance, all of the old ones were sure enough Irishmen.... They all liked a drink and a fight. Your great-grand-father, James Corbitt, (Jimmie) was a very likeable fellow. Daniel Corbitt, the brother of James was the first corpse I ever saw. He was in the nineties at the time of his death. He carried the mail over the old stage route when he was a young man and during the Seminole Indian war, some of Gen. Jackson's men stopped Uncle Dan on his route and ordered him to take quite a number of Indian scalps they had laying beside the road. The scalps had been carried around for several days, and because of the putrid odor, Uncle Dan refused to pick them up. He told the officer in command that if he would fix them up so they wouldn't stink and would put them on his horse he would carry them to headquarters for them, but he refused to put his hands on them. The officer again ordered him to take the scalps or he would order him shot. Uncle Dan told him "shoot and be damned," whereupon the firing squad was ordered out and just before the order to fire was given, someone in the company (a private) asked the commanding officer to permit him to fix up the scalps for the mail carrier. Permission was granted and Uncle Dan was saved from the firing squad. I have been to the identical spot where this occurred----- near the Okefinokee Swamp, about ten miles south of Manor." Quoted from A.C. Corbitt, Attorney, Atlanta.
